DADDY ISSUES

Which heiress can't stop posting selfies of herself making out with different men on her Instagram account? She has a thing for models and a big appetite for attention.

EVERYBODY NOSE

This young lady appears to be off the wagon and back into her old habits. She had no shame about it at a recent event, openly talking about her vices.

OOPS

You can imagine our surprise when we stumbled on two girls in a closed cubicle. There appeared to be a little inebriated experimentation going on.

Design and Dialogues

Luxury design and furniture showcase gets a boost from a tie-up with an international master of the arts

Whether you're a design buff sprucing up a new home, a seasoned architect scouting for business, or somewhere in between, you'll find inspiration galore at the International Design Furniture Fair Hong Kong (IDFFHK), which runs from August 25 to 27 at the Convention and Exhibition Centre. After a stellar inauguration in 2015, the second edition, themed Redefining Luxury, has grown substantially, thanks to a partnership with top international design fair IMM Cologne. More than 10,000 visitors are expected to attend the event, which boasts an expanded "dialogue speakers series" involving 20 acclaimed architects and designers, 11 gallery showcases from such iconic houses as Baccarat and Swarovski, and five design exhibitions, including a Zaha Hadid tribute and a show of 10 designers curated by Patrick Leung encapsulating the "Lion Rock spirit of Hongkongers." Says director Winnie Yue, "IDFF2017 offers a platform for cultural and creative exchanges, and it's exciting to join forces with our local and overseas talents." idffhk.com
